

HARVARD MAN GULL GUARDIAN

Will Live on Four Brothers
Islands in Lake Champlain

WITHOUT PAY AND WITHOUT WORK

Edward Hatch Had 1600
Applicants for the Position

New York, May 14.—A Harvard graduate was signed up to-day to be the lonely summer guardian for the sea gulls on Four Brothers Island, a breeding place set apart in Lake Champlain near Burlington, Vt., by Edward Hatch.

Every year Mr. Hatch advertises for a Robinson Crusoe who is willing to live alone on the island, without pay, to keep off poachers who raid the nests for the eggs. No man is hired for two successive seasons.

There were 1600 applicants answering the advertisement this year for "a man to live alone, no work, no compensation." Among them, he said, were lawyers, poets, artists, authors and naturalists.

Mr. Hatch's reason for protecting the breeding birds is his belief that gulls are the best seaside scavengers. He estimates there are at least 200,000 gulls around New York harbor, and that each one consumes an average of two pounds of refuse daily.

NEW BEDFORD CAT ADOPTS SEVEN CHICKS

Having Lost Her Three Kittens Which Lived But a Few Minutes, This Feline Mother Turned for Consolation to Unusual Task.

New Bedford, Mass., May 14.—While mourning the loss of her three kittens who lived by a few minutes, Nellie, a matronly English short-haired cat, turned to the incubator for consolation and now is the foster mother to a brood of chickens. The feline philanthropist has taken lodgings behind a stove in the home of Mrs. John T. Morey of this city, and bestows constant care and affection upon her beloved but puzzling family.

A practical minded hen discovered she had been duped into completing a hatching job which an incubator had started. The fowl immediately deserted the seven newly arrived chicks.

Mrs. Morey transferred the abandoned chicks to the tenement occupied formerly by the cat, where they came to the notice of Nellie on her first visit to the kitchen since her bereavement. After an hour of silent contemplation she decided upon adoption.

The first display of motherly interest almost disrupted the newly acquired family. Nellie decided that the downy orphans needed a bath. While the method of washing brought no complaint the wetting that was administered caused a general retreat.

Not until the cat had stretched herself out to forget her new troubles in sleep did the chickens approach her. Then they discovered that fur makes an ideal bed. Now the cat and chickens take milk from the same saucer and at night the orphans nestle to the foster parent.

Premature.

The reluctance of some of our restaurant proprietors to cut down their prices brings to mind the story of a certain English professor. He had erected a gray, mediaeval pile on a mountain peak and as he was approaching it with a friend he said, "I don't know what to call my place. What name would you advise?"

His friend stood still and surveyed the structure. "It looks like one of those Scotch castles in the Highlands," he remarked. "Why not call it Dunrobin?"

"Dunrobin? Dunrobin? Yes, that's a good name," said the professor; "only you see, I have no intention of retiring yet."—Boston Transcript.

SPORTSWOMEN MUST CONFORM.

Must Provide Themselves with Hunting and Fishing Licenses for 1921.

Vermont's fish and game wardens are considerably worried over the figures they will cut if they are compelled to hail women violators of the hunting and fishing license laws before the magistrate for conviction. Yet there is every possibility that some of the state's sportswomen may find themselves in difficulties with the wardens if they fail to familiarize themselves with the provisions of the present law relating to the issuance of these licenses. Under changes of 1921 all persons over fifteen years of age are required to take out licenses to hunt and fish and this clause applies alike to both sexes.

Seventy-five cents paid over to a town clerk for a fishing and hunting license, or one dollar and twenty-five cents if one desires a combination license and is a resident of the state over fifteen years of age will entitle one to all the shooting and fishing privileges allowed under Vermont law. More than this the payment of this moderate fee ought to give the license holder the comfortable feeling that he or she has contributed something to a fund which is devoted entirely to the propagation and preservation of fish and game.

Boston, May 14.—Charles P. Abbott of the brokerage firm of Abbott, Putnam & Co. of this city was found not guilty yesterday of larceny of about $1,600 from Lewis H. Green of New York. Abbott was arrested last month on Green's complaint involving a transaction in German marks which he alleged were paid for and not delivered. The firm of Abbott, Putnam & Co. recently was petitioned into bankruptcy.

EXCHANGE CERTIFICATES

For Regular Fishing and Hunting Licenses Before June 15.

Through the fault of no one the regular Vermont hunting and fishing licenses were not procurable at the opening of the fishing season of 1921, and a great many sportsmen were compelled to accept certificates issued by town clerks in lieu of the legal form. Every town clerk's office in the state now has ample supply of the regular license blanks and those sportsmen who are equipped with the temporary certificates should visit the clerk and exchange the certificates for the legal license form in order to avoid possible complication.

In the event of a lost certificate it might be difficult for a person to replace it unless the records of the clerk were very well kept and complete, but a lost license is always easily replaced by the office that issued it. The clerk retains the old license stub and can issue a new permit from the information in his files.

Sportsmen are asked to make the change before the 15th of June.

Mrs. SELCHERT'S DAUGHTER

Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Horicon, Wis.—"My young daughter had been troubled for several months with backache and a bad feeling in her stomach. She did not want to eat anything, while before she was so hungry she could hardly wait for her meals. The doctors gave her medicine but it did not help her. One day I was reading a little book of yours and it reminded me that when I was a young girl I took several bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. So she went to the drug store and got a bottle, and after taking the second one she could eat and has not had backache since. In all she took six bottles of it. She goes to school and on Saturdays helps with the housework. She is a normal, healthy girl now and we recommend your medicine. You have my permission to publish this letter as a testimonial for the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. FRANK SELCHERT, 150 Larabee St., Horicon Wisconsin.

Mothers all over the country have found Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to be a most reliable remedy for such conditions.

DEGREE FOR MME. CURIE.

Doctor of Science Was Conferred By Smith College.

Northampton, Mass., May 13.—The honorary degree of doctor of science was conferred on Mme. Marie Curie, the noted French scientist, at Smith college here this afternoon by President William Allan Neilson. Mme. Curie and her two daughters arrived at the home of President Neilson at 2 o'clock, where the party was entertained at luncheon. Over 2,500 people attended the convocation exercises in John M. Greene hall, including delegations from the faculties of Amherst, Mount Holyoke, M. A. C. and other colleges.

Professor Albert Schinz of Smith college delivered an address of welcome in French and Professor H. Edward Wells of the chemistry department paid high tribute to the invaluable contributions made to science by Mme. Curie.

In a section reserved for distinguished guests sat Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Goodhue of Burlington, Vt., and Mme. Curie's daughters. Among the trustees attending the exercises were George B. McCallum, treasurer of the college, ex-Governor S. W. McCall of Winchester, Mrs. Charles Davenport of Boston, Mrs. Elizabeth Cutter Morrow and Mrs. Edward Parsons of New York, Paul J. Sachs of Cambridge and Frederick M. Jones of Springfield.

Barry Egan Denies Sinn
Fein Negotiating With British Government

Paris, May 14.—Barry Egan, acting lord mayor of Cork, who is visiting this city, told a representative of the Journal to-day that the Sinn Fein would carry 124 out of the 128 seats in the South Irish Parliament at the coming elections there. He added that the Sinn Fein would also win nearly half of the 52 seats in the Ulster Parliament.

He denied that the Sinn Fein had opened negotiations with the British government.

"What the Sinn Fein demands," he said, "is that England solemnly proclaim Ireland a free and independent country. After that there will be time to talk of an agreement."

STATE BUYS PRINT SHOP

And C. W. Buckley of St. Albans Will Come to Montpelier to Run It.

St. Albans, May 14.—C. W. Buckley of Brown avenue has sold his printing shop on South Main street, which he has been operating for the past 24 years, to the state of Vermont printing department. Mr. Buckley has accepted a position as state printer with headquarters at Montpelier. All of the machinery which Mr. Buckley has had in his shop has been purchased by the state and will be taken to Montpelier in the near future by automobile truck. Mr. Buckley will do all small printing jobs which will be needed by the state department.

Mr. Buckley will leave for Montpelier with the machinery but his family will remain in this city for the present.

WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT, BUICK WILL BUILD THEM

The Universal Daily Habit!

EVERY man, woman or child in this city who can read, reads some daily newspaper every day.

It is as much a habit with them as eating, or talking, or walking.

The newspaper is their point of contact with the outside world and with each other.

In every other city of any size, other newspapers are printed and other people read them in the same intensive way. In the great stretches of rural communities the newspapers from the cities radiate out through the mail boxes.

North America is literally bound together and welded into a continent with common knowledge and common impulses—by its 30,000,000 daily newspaper circulation.

Newspaper readers have come to look on the daily advertising as part of the news. They turn to their newspaper when they want to buy, just as they turn to it for the ball score or the latest developments across the sea.

Local merchants know this and they know they can build a larger volume of business at less cost through the newspaper than through any other means of contact with possible customers.

Manufacturers and distributors of trade-marked goods are also coming to learn that North America is a series of markets—each differing from the other in opportunities to sell goods.

Each good market can be reached by newspaper advertising at low cost and without wasted effort in barren localities.

For this reason the newspaper has become the greatest medium for national advertising, just as it has always been the greatest medium for local advertising.

The national advertiser can best cover this market or any market through the newspapers.

Manufacturers and distributors are invited to write for a copy of the book, "National Advertising and the Newspapers," to the Bureau of Advertising, 606 World Building, New York.
